Commitment | Scaling Private Investment to Reach Net-Zero in Brazil

In Brazil, a land that pulses with life and vitality, where the Amazon stretches like a sea of emerald, and wind and sun power progress, a unique promise awakens. This promise tells us that, yes, we can turn the tide in our battle against climate change. Brazil boasts 10% of the world's reforestation potential and thrives on 85% renewable energy. But this is more than just a statistical marvel; it's a beacon of hope. It is proof that harmonizing with nature is not only achievable but also a pathway to prosperity.

Good afternoon. My name is Luciana Antonini Ribeiro, Co-founder of eB Capital. As a Private Equity firm, we've already raised and invested $200 million. Today, we're announcing a Clinton Global Initiative Commitment to Action to raise and invest an additional $400 million, for a total of $600 million in this land of promise. Our focus? Clean energy, agriculture, green reindustrialization, and more.

We stand on the brink of history, as architects, visionaries, believers, investors in a future where economy and ecology coexist harmoniously. By 2027, our investments aim to generate jobs, spur innovation, and contribute significantly to global climate resilience. In a gesture of unwavering commitment to those most impacted by climate change in Brazil, eB Capital pledges to donate 10% of its performance fee — between $2-10 million — to an NGO dedicated to uplifting and empowering the indigenous communities of the Amazon rainforest.

This is not just an investment; it's our tribute to the land that inspires us. It epitomizes eB Capital's mission to be stewards of change during this pivotal moment in our planet's history. A greener, more resilient world is within reach. With your support, we won't just reach it; we'll wholeheartedly embrace it. Become a part of this vibrant tapestry that the Clinton Global Initiative has been weaving, and together, let's transform promise into reality. Thank you.
